

Roger Dixon

Principal Architect,

Health Facility Planner & Planning Supervisor

Dip Arch (Lond) ARB

Roger Dixon has practised health care planning and design in the public, private and academic sectors as a Principal Architect at the Department of Health in London, as a Research Officer and visiting lecturer at the Medical Architecture Research Unit (MARU) and as a consultant on UK, and overseas projects in association with UK architectural practices.

His work with Ann Noble Architects since 1992 has included the refurbishment of St Luke's Hospital, Malta, the Northampton Community Healthcare NHS Trust Mental Health PFI FITN, and LIFT projects as a Health Facility Planner.